Feral Forage

Innovations in Pest Animal Control

Feral animals, including rabbits, goats, deer, foxes and wild dogs cost Australia in excess of $720 million per year. They cause catastrophic damage and threaten our landscape, agriculture and industries. Government authorities, researchers and industry are working together to help landholders manage pest animals in our landscape.

Michael Leane, Team Leader Invasive Species and Plant Health with Riverina Local Land Services is the guest speaker for Riverina Highlands Landcare Network's annual winter warmer dinner.

Michael will provide an overview of some the more recent and innovative practices available in our region to help in eradicating declared pest species. These include rabbit RHDV, wild dog collaring program, feral pig DNA mapping and the M44 Ejectors.

As part of the overall theme for the evening, Nimbo Fork Lodge has put together a selection of substantial finger food inspired by some of these pest species.
